Spy Turns Writer

STOCKHOLM, July 9 (AP).—Stig Wennerstrom, former Swedish diplomat and government official who was convicted of spying, will be doing paper work for the government in his maximum security cell in Stockholm.

It was disclosed yesterday that he will work as a writer for a government department. The nature of the work was not known.

Wennerstorm, 57, sentenced to a life term recently, is expected to be eligible for parole after 10 or 12 years.
